FROM MIDDLEBROOK.

Special correspondence.]

Isn't it time to revive our spelling bees?

J. M. Holland is somewhat indisposed this week.

A fine boy recently arrived at the home of F. A. French.

W. L. Depriest is making new building improvements.

J. M. Jordan, of Dresden, visited relatives here last week.

J. C. Cowell is making needed improvements on his dwelling.

Misses Rose and Etta Hudson, of Liberty, visited relatives here last week.

Snow made its appearance here this morning, and there are indications of a freeze.

V. A. Kee contemplates seeking his fortunes in the West, and J. H. Nunery will shortly move over on Beaverdam Creek.

Elder G. B. Buskervills presided at the quarterly conference held at the chapel. Cowell's Chapel paid up and over, and there was enough dinner to feed as many more. Altogether it was a great success.

MIDDLEBROOK, November 11.

FROM GREENBRIER.

Special correspondence.]

M. E. Byrn has charge of the Barnes school.

Riley Watson has been buying hogs in this locality.

Jesse Wyatt is improving his dwelling, on the south side.

Will Barnes is down with pneumonia. We hope he will recover in a short time.

Jesse Wyatt & Son, whose mill was nearly destroyed by fire the 2nd instant, will soon be ready for sawing again.

The November election is over, and the Democratic ticket elected by a largely increased majority. Lets not tire in the good work, but lets endeavor to make a heavier gain in favor of Bryan in 1900.

The literary society here meets at Barnes School-house every Saturday night. We have recitations, and some interesting, debatable questions are discussed. The subject for discussion next Saturday evening is "Resolved, that woman should have the right to vote."

John French has moved to his new dwelling on Main street, and Mrs. Sallie French has moved to the place he vacated, same street. Bud Cherry has moved in with his mother-in-law, on the east side, and Howe Barnes has moved into the house vacated by Cherry, on the corner of Main and Church streets.

GREENBRIER, November 22.

FROM LIBERTY.

Regular correspondence.]

Robert Ayres lost a horse last week—died of "bots."

W. A. Sparks has bought a half interest in the John Wright place, and will move in the near future.

J. W. Bateman and wife, Mrs. O. C. Hubbs and child and Carlos Finley, of Camden, visited here last Sunday.

The Sunday school is pleased to have A. D. Vick for superintendent. There was a reasonably good attendance at Sunday school Sunday, but the election of officers was postponed until next Sunday. We hope that the interest in the work will continue, for in this way only can good be accomplished.

While we would compliment the Smith's College correspondent for his "stickability," we will not encourage him to stick to the old rule of "try again," since he plead with his people so earnestly to make him school director, when this office, as a rule, seeks the man. We are glad that he is still at his old place of business, which is not his business, but it is a business that his neighbor bears seriously object to. We hope that he will engage in a business less objectionable than that of criticizing his home people.

LIBERTY, November 22.

FROM GARFIELD.

Regular correspondence.]

John Ogles was at Huntingdon last Saturday.

J. J. Cole and wife visited relatives at Camden Sunday.

Dr. G. H. Watkins, of Hollow Rock, was here yesterday.

Charley Watson made his regular visit near Eggville Sunday.

A large congregation heard Rev. Mr. Arnold at Pleasant Ridge last Sunday.

Miss Bettie Carrington, of near Huntingdon, was the guest of Miss Emma Broughton Sunday.

While crossing Big Sandy River last week with four mules to a lumber wagon L. A. Wyatt met with an accident which came near ending his life. The bridge gave way and all were precipitated into the river. Mr. Wyatt had a narrow escape from drowning, and lost two of his best mules.

GARFIELD, November 22.

FROM SMITH'S COLLEGE.

Regular correspondence.]

We are having fine weather this week.

The class meeting here Sunday was a failure.

Riley Watson shipped a large drove of cattle yesterday.

Jesse Farmer, of Clarendon, preached at the Hill Sunday evening.

The new pastor, who ever he may be, will be here next Sunday.

John C. Rushing thinks every body knows or ought to know that its a girl.

Our old friend and neighbor, B. C. Scroggs, will preach at Pleasant Valley Thursday evening.

A saw-mill will soon be in operation near Wyly. This will give employment to several hands.
